

Ben Vossler, Assistant Director, Yale School of Medicine, 2-5494

Ben is one of two analysts that serve the research needs of the Development Office of the Yale School of Medicine. He has been with the office since August of 2003. Previously, Ben spent three years working for an executive search firm in Norwalk, CT, where he was hired to set up a research component (known as “sourcing” in the recruiting industry). A native of Norwalk and a graduate of Fairfield University, Ben enjoys participating in various activities in and around New Haven.

Kristen Plock, Associate Research Analyst, Yale School of Medicine, 6-8548

Kristen joined the Yale Office of Development in August 2011 as a prospect researcher for the School of Medicine. She previously worked as an RFP Writer with a small investment consulting firm in Stamford, Connecticut. She has also worked in newspapers, magazines, and web content production and management, most recently covering the tennis industry. Her writing has been recognized with awards from the Society of Professional Journalists’ Connecticut Chapter and the New England Press Association. A Connecticut native, Kristen graduated from Quinnipiac University in 2002 with Bachelor of Arts degrees in Mass Communications and Spanish. Her hobbies include reading and crafting.